THE SHELBY NEWS .- This paper was issued on Wednesday after an interval of five weeks from its last publication. It says the guerillas under Jack Allen, John Jones, etc., were nearly every day in town, for some two weeks, and until the regular forces under Claiborne marched into the county. Scores of the finest horses were stolen by them, and the corn and horses were stolen by them, and the corn and hay of Union men destroyed. No one was personally injured, so far as the News has learned. Jack Allen's banditti called at the Editor's bayes covered times and once entered. Editor's house several times, and once entered with bayonets pointed at his wife and daughter, and undertook to order them about. They wanted the bonds which as United States Commissioner he had required certain noted rebels to give. The keys of his desks were given to them by his daughter, who, at the same time, told them the bonds were not in his possession; and that when they took WashingtonCity possibly they might get them! Jack Allen, when he found he was foiled in getting the bonds, had the wife and daughter informed, and afterwards proclaimed it on the streets, that if the bonds were not obtained and given up to him within ten days, at the expiration of that time he would burn the

He had the conscience of this fight. He was a Union man for the sake of the Union, and now, with his heart's blood, he has sealed his now, with his heart's blood, he has sealed his devotion to the flag. FRIDAY, OCTOBER 17, 1862.

The returns already received from the elections of Tuesday, though imperfect and not a little variegated in complexion, leave no room for doubt that the total result is a great conservative victory. We think we may safely make this annunciation. And certainly we do so with a lighter heart than we hav carried in our bosom for many weeks. We shall have more to say of this victory when the smoke shall have lifted itself a little higher from the battle-field.

Our hopes are not realized by the news from Buell and Bragg. It appears, that, in passing through or beyond Crab Orchard, Bragg was about seventeen miles ahead of

We doubt very much now whether Buell can catch Bragg at all, unless the latter deliberately chooses to be caught. We do not sup pose, though, that the rebels can make the requisite speed in their retreat if they encumber themselves with cattle, hogs, or any cor siderable amount of bacon and flour. They may perhaps make a stand at some stronghold in the Cumberland Mountains, yet it does not seem likely, considering their numbers, that they could subsist there for any length of time. We think the present probability is, that they will attempt to get across the Cumberland river into Tennessee, this stream being now so low that it may no doubt be forded at many points. If, however, Buell pushes on with fiery speed, Bragg may fail in the attempt to put the river between them, and at any rate the rebel General, even if he succeed in escaping with his huge army from Kentucky, will, by his flight, lose prestige with his section and with his own followers We can hardly expect any intelligence of interest from the belligerents, or the competitors in marching, for some days. If Bragg get safe into Tennessee after the late terrible poliation of Kentucky, we cannot even con cture what the programme of action on either side will be thereafter. Bragg may go into Virginia to join Lee, or he may establish himself at Chattanooga and other points in East Tennessee, or he may strike for the capture of Nashville and seek to get back into Kentucky by nearly the same route he recent ly travelled. Meanwhile Buell, at the head of his magnificent army, a host capable o mighty achievements, will no doubt be governed in his action by the logic of events.

Affairs in Kentucky have ceased to be thrilling. The voice of the cloud has died away, cold patter of rain.

The latent sympathy with rebels, which we have all along declared to exist among the people of Kentucky, is beginning to develop it self. It will not surprise the friends of th fovernment, because at no time has the proressed loyalty of Kentucky been much more than a mere "lip service;" while regiment after regiment from the North has been sent after regiment from the North has been sent forward to preserve her from hostile invasion, it has invariably happened that collisions with armed rebels within her borders have been left to these, with but a nominal participation by her own troops. Witness the engagement at Munfordville, where only a single regiment of Kentuckians could be mustered on the side of loyalty.—Milwaukee Daily Life.

The Milwaukee "Daily Life", as might per haps be inferred from the paragraph above, i an extreme abolition sheet, edited by an indi vidual who has been indicted not only for aiding the violent rescue of slaves from the custody of the law but even for a worse and more shameful crime. All these debased abolitionists delight to reve in scurrilous abuse of Kentucky, lacking either the sense to see or the candor to acknowledge that, to her position and that of the other Borde States, the cause of the Union is almost bound lessly indebted for its prosperity. The asser tion that the professed loyalty of Kentucky has been mere "lip service" is put to shame by the fact that she has contributed from forty two to forty-five thousand men to the U. S armies, exclusive of her thousands of love Home Guards and State Guards, that the mer thus contributed have gone wherever ordere and fought in every battle with a gallantry that the tongue or pen of calumny itsel dares not impeach, and, that her Home and State Guards, in their scores of encounters with the wild-swarming bands of rebel guer llas, have performed many of the most chi-valric achievements of the war. The assertion that it has invariably happen ed that collisions with armed rebels within th borders of Kentucky have been but nominall participated in by her own troops is a scanda ous falschood. Even if it were true, it would involve no just imputation upon Kentucky since her troops have always been where they were appointed to be, whether inside or out side of her borders, fighting wherever and whenever called on or permitted to fight, and ways so acquitting themselves that the shout applause was loud and the voice of slander dumb. There were several Kentucky regiments at Mill Spring, there were several or the disastrous field of Richmond, and, if any one of them failed to take its designated position and to perform nobly according to its strength the work to which it was assigned egiments at Munfordville? Was there any let its accuser stand forth before the world and state his accusation. The Milwaukee aboli tionist says, that, at Munfordville, "only a single regiment of Kentuckians could be mustered on the side of loyalty." Could be? Was there any attempt to muster more Kentucky call or proclamation for more? Was there even any authority for more to rally at that point? Did not Gen. Buell, on his way there, have in his army numerous Kentucky regiments that he trusted as among the best disciplined and most effective of his forces, and was it not in his power to send as many of them Munfordville or anywhere else as he pleased? Is it a stigma upon Kentucky's oyalty or the character of her troops that the General in command placed but one of her regiments at Munfordville, retaining the rest in the magnificent army with which he was in daily expectation of encountering the powerful host of invaders under four or five of the most distinguished Generals of the Southern Confederacy?

The history of the battle of Perryville of Chaplin Hills is before the nation, and the nation will judge whether Kentucky had or had not something more than a nominal participation in it. We really know nothing in onnection with journalism at this time, more screditable, more utterly despicable, than the efforts of certain wretched Editors, small to be sure in number and smaller still in influence. to excite prejudices and antipathies and resentments between loyal States. The Editor who will be guilty of such a thing is less than a patriot, less than a citizen, less than a man

The rebels will soon find their cup of gall and wormwood commended to their own ips. The invaders will be invaded, the despoilers despoiled, the coercers coerced, the hangman hung.

Gen. Howell Cobb drinks to excess. He's generally a corned Cobb.

Proclamations from whatever source can no the track of the planets.

So much for the feasibility of the abolition cheme, leaving out of view all the other insusure not only which should not be executed if it should be. It is as impracticable as it is lawess and inhuman.

Therefore, let the true and enlightened riends of the country rest composed. A little time is all that will be necessary to bring the ounsels of the radicals to shame, without irretrievable damage to the public cause. Let patriots be of good cheer. Whatever appearauces may be, the stars in their courses are ighting against the enemies of the country South and North. Abolition and secession have alike culminated and both are on the wane. A brighter day for the Union and the Constitution is at hand. It is breaking in glory amidst the bullets and ballots of the WASHINGTON HUNT .- We notice with great leasure that the conservative Unionists of the Niagara District in New York have nomnated this sterling patriot and accomplished statesman as a candidate for Congress. The omination is in all respects a fit one. Washington Hunt is among the truest, soundest, blest, ripest, best men in the Union. He is one of the unset, unshorn stars of the old Whig galaxy of the nation.

The Niagara District is represented in the present Congress by an abolitionist; and, unless Gov. Hunt shall be elected, the Distric will be represented in the next Congress by another abolitionist. We of course look forward to the issue with a deep solicitude. The election of Washington Hunt, if it shall take place, will be hailed with joy by patriots from one end of the Union to the other Certainly it will be a just subject for national congratulation. His election will not alone ibstitute in the Halls of Congress a conservative Unionist for an abolitionist, great as this advantage alone will be: it, besides, will add to the councils of the nation at the most for midable juncture of the national career a statesman of large experience and of approved wisdom. Most earnestly and ardently do we pray for his election.

General Rosecrans has entitled himself to a vast measure of gratitude by showing to the rest of the Generals of the United States how the advantages of victory should be used. If such an example as his had been set in the early part of the war and faithfully followed afterwards, we believe that the rebel- with no misgiving as to the answer. and nothing is left for the present but a dull lion would ere this have been closed up and closed out. There can be no military fact and crippled in battle should be instantly and vigorously followed up, pressed upon, harassed, and knocked from pillar to post, and from post to pillar, until he is utterly broken up and broken down.

It is fortunate that we have at least one General, who, when he gains a victory, knows what to do with it.

for Congress by the Unionists of the Second District of New Jersey. He is a man of trans-cendent ability, and will make his mark.

The newspaper clipping above found its way f yesterday's Journal. Mr. Brownson is in deed a man of very remarkable ability, but nasmuch as in the course of his intellectus and political gyrations he has turned up in th resent time a radical of the wildest stamp he is wholly unworthy of a place in Congress We cannot conceive easily of a greater pes and nuisance than he would prove in the Halls of Congress. He is undoubtedly a mar of mark, but he should not be allowed t make his mark in the councils of the govern

Humphrey Marshall's son John wa twice arrested as a rebel, once here and once at Memphis. In each instance he got off b taking the oath of allegiance, and now he is in the rebel army, where he has been for many months. If he is captured again, the military authorities will hardly require him to take the oath a third time; they will no doubt consider two oaths a plenty. They will not only not require him to swear but take effectual pre autions against his ever doing any mor swearing judicial or profane.

Humphrey's youngest son, his name-sak and fac simile, belly and all, was slightly wounded a few weeks ago in a skirmish a Newcastle, and the citizens say that he roare like a great bull-calf.

The rebels are evidently becoming in sane. They show it in their Congressions proceedings as well as in the proclamatio orders, and acts of their military leaders. nember of their Congress recently proposed the payment of a liberal bounty to any negro, free or slave, who should kill a Federal soldier, sailor, or marine, and the proposition seemed to be received very complacently. We shouldn't be at all surprised to hear of its adoption. It is quite as likely to be adopted

Kirby Smith made the people of Lex ngton carry all their cooking stoves to the counderies to be cast into shot and shell. He probably considered, that, as he had seized and appropriated everything they had to cook, their cooking stoves were to them a superfluity.

Now that the time has come to try men's souls, let not our people show that they have got none.

We know not how long-lived the war nay be, but it and the rebellion will perish to-

Some ten days ago a few "jovial cusses" in Nashville, being anxious to go to Louisville, got a sailboat, rigged it up, dubbed it the "Forlors freemen of the Republic. God speed the Hope," and having laid in a stock of crackers sardines, and corn-juice, started down to Smithland. Unluckily, the adventurers had not floated more than three or four miles before a party of thieves brought them to shore obbed them, and made them walk back to the city. Well, this wonderful performance is thus published in the Charleston Mercury: Important from Chattanooga—Situation of Nashville.—A despatch from Nashville, date september 30, says that the steamer Forlors Hope was captured by the rebels on Sunday few miles below the city.

A FLAG FOR THE FIFTEENTH KENTUCK REGIMENT .- May we ask of the loyal ladie f Louisville one very modest question? Are here not at least as good reasons now for preenting Colonel Pope's regiment a glorious, plendid flag, since that regiment has conferred enown on the former gift of the loyal wome of Louisville, and has won immortality for tself, as there were for the gift of that flag which bears testimony in its condition to the fact that the Fifteenth regiment at Perryville redeemed all of its promises to the loyal donor n accepting the inspiring gift, and fulfilled what Kentucky expected of it in the hour of peril, and in the shock of hurtling artiller and blazing musketry? The enemy's pickets and Vidette's were in considerable force on the roads, and skirmished with our advance for ten miles, enabling the main force, consisting of one regiment, the main force, consisting of one regiment, the Thirty-second Alabama Infantry, one steel-rifled cannon, and three thousand cavalry, to assume a position, forming their lines in anticipation of our entire force advancing on the Murfreesboro road, which was part of our object

The enemy commenced the action by open ng fire with three pieces of artillery at the istance of three hundred yards. This was oon silenced by a shell from one of our guns exploding their ammunition chest. At the noment the enemy were directing their move-nents against the right flank of General Pal-ner's force, Col. Miller's infantry arrived, advancing in a splendid line of battle, and deli-ering a well directed fire into the enemy anks' which was followed by a skillfu deployment right and left to cut off their retreat.

The Confederates held their ground for hirty minutes, then fled in the wildest disorder, leaving one hundred and seventy-fiverisoners in our hands, among whom were fficers, three pieces of artillery, ordnance ar uartermaster stores, a large amount of pro-isions, camp equipage, personal effects, astand f regimental colors, and two railroad cars thich we destroyed. NO NEUTRALITY TO BE ALLOWED .- The New Orleans correspondent of the New York Times, writing on the 30th ult., says that among the incidents called forth by the pertinacious determination of General Butler to thoroughly sift the wheat from the chaff of this population is the following correspondence. It must be premised that Dr. Mercer is, probably, one of the richest planters of Mississippi. Originally from Pennsylvania, very surgeon in the United States Army; he eventually married, and by a course of good fortune he has amassed his present wealth. For many years he has had his winter residence many years ago, he went to the South as a many years he has had his winter residence in New Orleans. At his house Mr. Clay was always a guest when in the city, and Dr. Mercer, throughout this rebellion, has always see that the destruction would be complete see that the destruction would be complete. always a guest when in the city, and Dr. been known as, at least, a quasi Union man.

The writer says When Gen. Butler first arrived here the Doctor was a great deal at headquarters; but, I presume, that the spirit that dictated his letter of the 26th, gradually made him feel that he did not possess the influence or command the welcome sufficient to make his intimacy altogether agreeable, and I noticed that Dr. Mercer gradually ceased his visits. What course the Doctor would pursue has often been discussed, and I have not the least doubt but he expected to escape the penalty that was held over other people. Conceding that the Doctor could at any moment draw his check on London for any number of pounds sterling, and sell it here for specie to any of the Eng-lish commission merchants or banks, his allu-sion to the three thousand dollars in gold, re-served for an emergency, is quite ridiculous. There are also some anti-Hibernian minds who cannot understand how the Doctor has escaped giving in the account of the money in his "faithful return" as he has advertised th fact to the four corners of the earth. I should, perhaps, say that the last paragraph of the Doctor's letter contains the gist of the arguent of every man here who desires to escap public identification with the Union cause and I think the reply of General Butler to the specious presentation of conceded indifference if not enmity to the Federal Government, is one of the happiest things that has yet characterized his nervous style, displayed in his searching, manly, soldierly letters and orders.

Sir: You have probably inferred from our various conversations that I have not taken an oath of allegiance to the Confederate States or have been a member of any society or pub or have been a member of any society or public body in New Orleans or elsewhere in the Confederacy; and that, since your arrival here, I have maintained a strict neutrality.

In pursuance of your Order No. 76, I will make a faithful return, substantially, if not minutely accurate, of all my property here, except about $3,000, the greater part of which is in gold, that I have reserved for an emergency. I mention this to you now to avoid I mention this to you now to avoid

Your order referred to exempts those only who have taken the oath of allegiance, but I cannot think you intend to include those in paired. ny situation as "claiming to be enemies of the United States." Such an interpretation is, in my opinion, at variance with the act of Congress, as well as with the proclamation of President Lincoln. I have the honor to be, Sir,

Your obedient servant.
(Signed) W. NEWTON MERCER. To Major-Gen. BUTLER, U. S. A., Com'g, &c. HEADQUARTERS DEPARTMENT OF THE GULF, NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 27, 1862. SIR: I have your note of the 26th Septem-their influence to the United States: all that do not do so are the enemies of the United States; the line is to be distinctly and broadly drawn. Every citizen must find himself on the one side or other of that line, and can claim no other position than that of a friend or an enemy of the United States. While I am sorry to be obliged to differ from you in your construction of the act of Congress and the proclamation of the Presiden, I cannot permit any reservation of property from the list, or exemption of person from the requirement of Order No. 76. It may be, and I trust is, quite true, that by no act of yours have you rendered yourself liable to the confiscation of your property under the act and proclamation, but that is for the military or other courts to decide. You, however, will advise yourself with your usual care and cau-tion, what may be the effect, now that you are solemnly called upon to declare yourself in favor of the government, of contumaciously refusing to renew your allegiance to it, thereby inducing, from your example, others of your fellow-citizens to remain in the same opposition.

I am glad to acknowledge your long and upright life as a man, your former services as an officer of the government, and the high respect I entertain for your personal character and moral worth, but I am dealing with your duty as a citizen of the United States. All these polyle qualities as well as your high these noble qualities, as well as your high social position, render your example all the more influential and pernicious, and, I grieve to add, in my opinion, more dangerous to the interests of the United States than if, a younger man, you had shouldered your musket and er man, you had shouldered your musket and marched to the field in the army of the rebel-

By the return of another of our corresponders from Urbana, we ascertained that General Stuar and his staff officers, together with two hundred rebel cavalry, entered that village at five o'clock this morning, where the former break fasted with the family of Mrs. Cockry, a notes accessionist of the town, the husband of whom fasted with the family of Mrs. Cockry, a noted secessionist of the town, the husband of whom went off with the rebels a month or so since, but was arrested at Williamsport last week.

Gen. Stuart then went to the house of Mr. Stephenson, a rebel minister of Urbana, to whom he paid his respects, and took his leave. The main body of the rebel troops did not enter Urbana, but stopped at Hyattsville on their way to the several fords of the Potomac. It is stated that they had in their possession some 500 captured horses, upon whose backs were strapped all the valuables they had secured. A number of wagons containing plunder follows the cavalry. Several rebel officers took breakfast this morning within three quarters of a mile of Monocacy Junction. The damage to the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad has been repaired.

THE CONFLAGRATION ON OIL CREEK-LO $100,000. - The Oil City (Penn.) Register, of Saturday, contains the following particular of the late disastrous fire on Oil Creek:

On Friday afternoon, about 3 o'clock, a fire broke out on the Blood farm, at its intersection with the Tarr farm. The fire first broke out in the tanks of Mr. H. O. Filkins. As to how the fire originated there is considerable diversity of opinion. Without any prejudice, we merely think it must have caught from some of the numerous engines in the imme. ome of the numerous engines in the immediate vicinity of the Filkins well.

The space burnt over embraces from 18 to 20 acres. Most of this was on the Blood farm in what was called Maple Grove. In this grove was the Filkin, Lloyd, and several other wells. Oil had been stored in this locality fo the last three months, and of course a larg quantity was on hand. Here, as well a above, the oil tanks were standing close to gether, intermingled with engine houses, offices, etc. On this territory were stored som 30,000 barrels of oil, in tanks and barrels, be ides some ten wells, seven of which wer lowing. To those who have never seen a fir from Petroleum, we can give no adequate d scription of the scene presented to view. Son 150 tanks of oil were on fire in a short tim The flames went slowly but surely from or object to another. The fire leaped up the tree forming the grove, to a distance of from 75 to 100 feet. All the men in the Immediate vicin ity were busy at work to assist in staying the fell work of destruction. The smoke rolled in thick volumes over the scene.

Occasionally the sun would break through the thick cloud of smoke, revealing a sight of the thick cloud of smoke, revealing a sight of terrific grandeur and beauty. Amidst this stifling smoke, heroic men worked as manfully against their dreadful foe as if they had been on the field of battle contending with the Southern Confederacy. In these few hours men enacted as daring deeds as were ever done on any battle-field. Men, noble, brave men, stand upon tanks of cill which have been stand. stood upon tanks of oil which have bee deemed as dangerous as a powder magazine, and bravely battled against the flame, and were almost stifled by the smoke. All that human foresight and exertion could do was done. But it was all in vain. It is true that some houses, and the refineries of Messrs. Barrows, Scott, Battles, & Co. were saved, but the remaining portion of the ground was burn

After six o'clock the fire ceased raging, for the simple reason that there was little or nothing left to burn. The whole space before occupied by tanks, wells, engine houses, of ices, and dwellings was swept clean.
